Three Prime Ministerial candidates in the country?

Narendra Modi is no doubt a perfect Prime Minister of India as on date. No other leader stands before him given his performance and dedication to the service of nation, but if there is any chance of other than Modi to be the Prime Minister candidate for the 2024-25 elections, three names that have taken the lead in an opinion poll conducted by the whispersintheceilings.com are Amit Shah, Arvind Kejriwal and Sharad Pawar. whispersintheceilings.com has asked it's surfers –

Who are the three Prime Ministerial candidates in the country?

Given the present day politics when there seems to be no match to PM Narendra Modi, who are the three Prime Ministerial candidates across all the political parties in the country.

And the three names that as per the choice of surfers came on top were - Amit Shah, Arvind Kejriwal and Sharad Pawar – in that order of priority.

Narendra Modi

present Prime Minister

Narendra Damodardas Modi is a BJP politician serving as the 14th and current Prime Minister of India since 2014. He was the Chief Minister of Gujarat from 2001 to 2014 and is the Member of Parliament for Varanasi. He is the first prime minister outside of the Indian National Congress to win two consecutive terms with a full majority and the second to complete five years in office after Atal Bihari Vajpayee. During the first tenure, his government is known to have made attempts to raise foreign direct investment in the Indian economy and improve efficiency in the bureaucracy. A high-profile sanitation campaign launched at his initiative has been appreciated by one and all. He also got tax reforms enacted and in a tit-for-tat to Pakistan, launched surgical strikes in Pakistani-administered Kashmir. He also confronted China on behalf of Bhutan during the Doklam standoff. Following his victory with an expanded majority in the 2019 general election, he has focused on social issues, having criminalised triple talaq, revoked the special status of Jammu and Kashmir, and introduced a path to Indian citizenship for non-Muslim refugees from Bangladesh, Afghanistan and Pakistan.
Amit Shah
Amitabh Anilchandra Shah, commonly known as Amit Shah, is the current Minister of Home Affairs who has been President of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) from 2014 to 2020. He was elected to the Lok Sabha in the 2019 general elections from Gandhinagar in Gujarat. He was earlier elected as a member of the Rajya Sabha from Gujarat in 2017. A close aide to Prime Minister Narendra Modi and the youngest serving full-time Home Minister at an age of 54, he is also the chief strategist of the BJP. Shah was the BJP’s in-charge for India’s largest and politically most crucial state, Uttar Pradesh, during the 2014 Lok Sabha elections and the BJP and its allies swept the state, registering their best performance, by winning 73 out of 80 seats. As a result, Shah rose to national prominence and was appointed as the party’s national president in July 2014. Shah also played an organising and membership-promotional role in elections of many states since 2014.

Arvind Kejriwal
Arvind Kejriwal, national convener of the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP), is a former bureaucrat who has been Chief Minister of Delhi twice - from Dec. 2013 to Feb. 2014, and then since February 2015. It was under his leadership that AAP won the 2015 Delhi Assembly elections with a historic majority, obtaining 67 out of 70 assembly seats. In 2006, Kejriwal was awarded the Ramon Magsaysay Award for Emergent Leadership in recognition of his involvement in the grassroots level movement Parivartan using right to information legislation in a campaign against corruption. The same year, after resigning from Government service, he donated his Magsaysay award money as a corpus fund to fund the Public Cause Research Foundation, a non-governmental organisation (NGO). Before joining politics, Kejriwal - a graduate in Mechanical engineering from Indian Institute of Technology (IIT) Kharagpur - had worked in the Indian Revenue Service as a Joint Commissioner of Income Tax in New Delhi.

Sharad Pawar
Sharad Govindrao Pawar, popularly known as Sharad Pawar, with over 50 years of public service holds a position of prominence in politics of India as well as the regional politics of Maharashtra. During his long career, Pawar has served as the Chief Minister of Maharashtra on three occasions and held the posts of Union Minister of Defence and Union Minister of Agriculture. He is president of the Nationalist Congress Party (NCP), which he founded in 1999, after separating from the Indian National Congress. He is one of the founders of MVA, a post-poll alliance in Maharashtra between Shivsena, NCP, and INC. Outside of politics, Pawar served as the Chairman of the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) from 2005 to 2008 and as the president of the International Cricket Council from 2010 to 2012. In 2017, the Indian government under his political opponent, prime minister Narendra Modi, conferred upon him Padma Vibhushan, the second-highest civilian honour of India.
Views of a Surfer

POLITICS IN INDIA is always been really tough for the last few years. Different regions and north-south divide political discourse have coarsened are self-evident. There is the greater intrusion of the media into public and private life, & a lot of what they serve up is degrading, rather than enlightening or redemptive. In the outcast when there was no high involvement of media in anyone's life, Nehru started the tradition for exhibited the prime ministerial candidate. Since the process has been ruining. Many intellectuals from different fields came and fade away, few of them had taken the position for a long time on one hand and on another hand, and some held the position for quite a little time.

Indian politics have never been that dramatically changed; now politicians are burgeoning from every district, villages and so-called cities of this great land and serving with their highest calibre. In my view, if there is a chance other than Mr Modi to be the Prime Minister candidate for the 2024-25 elections. I would like to present three names-

1. AMIT SHAH (BJP)  2. JAY RAM RAMESH (CONGRESS)  3. ARVIND KEJRIWAL (AAP).

Consequently, Present scenario extirpates many stalwarts among all the national political parties due to combusting issues like CAA. The central govt. already cedes its decision on the CAA and planning further to implement NPR throughout India rigorously. There are two cynosures in the present government, firstly, the implementation of policies which were mentioned in the BJP led government manifesto in the last election. Secondly the predominant financial reforms for the Indian economy.

In 2019 BJP mentioned in its manifesto about many policies which will be followed by them for its term, to make this country great again. They stated zero-tolerance policy against terrorism, creating an opportunity for youth; a roadmap to becoming five trillion economies and etc. clearly being a law-abiding citizen of this country, every citizen must feel proud for these reforms furthermore we are taking it too seriously because somehow sooner or later it will be affecting every life in our country. Now the question arises, where are we now, are we really thriving towards development or it is just a myth that put in our mind due to accumulating votes.

Now come to the point, Prime Ministerial candidate for 2024-25,

My first name - Amit Shah

He is the second in command in BJP. A businessman-turned-politician, Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) President Amit Shah was made the Union home minister in the second term of the Narendra Modi-led central government. Also referred to as the 'Chanakya' of modern Indian politics, Shah, a close aide of Modi, is credited with leading the BJP to victory in several elections as the party's president. There was a time when barely people know about him, he was just a member in Gujrat legislative assembly. Was part of many controversies, in and out from jail, arrest and exile.

Jay Ram Ramesh.

There were days when people used to vote for the candidate rather than the party name. Most of the intellectuals politicians in our society follow the path sincerely with their dedication towards work and he is one of among them. He was an integral part of the UPA government and held the various important positions in UPA governance. His powerful devotion towards work and magnificent style of working, makes him a suitable candidate for the prime ministerial candidate for 2024-25.

Arvind Kejriwal

As the name suggests itself, Arvind is also paramount part of India's present-day politics. Being a chief minister of Delhi, he has done quite meaningful work for the well being of Delhi citizens. His Mohalla clinics, work over water and electricity is quite encouraging. He has completed his tenure successfully with flying colours, implemented many polices for the poorest of the poor, females and students on small scale. Delhi govt. relationship with the centre always was in the headline, relationship with the LG is itself not easy to forget. Hence AAP still needs time to get settled in. Being a prime minister is not that easy task, it needs a wide platform, an abundant amount of workers, nationwide approach and most important a vision with great aspiration. Which seems highly less in the AAP in the present scenario.

Being a prime ministerial candidate of India is a very complex task. There are many other politicians laid down in the way. Only time will tell who will be the next prime minister of India but the candidate must have the quality to make us unite and productive.

Subramanian Swamy, Rajnath Singh and Uma Bharti are my choice for prime ministership of the biggest democracy of the world

Nancy Sharma

Shreya Singh

Sharad Pawar is my candidate for PM of India.

S Gopal

Sharan Gupta

After Narendra Modi, second best is Amit Shah and third best is Sharad Pawar.

Presently there does not seem to be any replacement to Narendra Modi. So Modi for this term and next term and after his retirement the name of Amit Shah appears in my mind.

3 Arvind Kejriwal

A K Agrawal

Narendra Modi and Digvijay Singh

G S Mathur, former DGP

Uma Bharti can be ideal Prime Minister candidate

Lucy Singh

Priyanka Gandhi can be good choice for Prime Minister as politics is in her genes. Her grand mother and father, both ruled the Indian state with vision and wisdom which is lacking in present day political class.

Sanju Ahuja

Shashi Tharoor is totally PM material as today’s time needs a leader who is well read and well informed and what better person than him.

Rahul Garg

Nitin Gadkari, Priyanka Gandhi and Venkaiah Naidu are the three Prime Ministerial candidate for me.

Girish Parmar

Yogi Adityanath is my choice for Prime Minister since he is truly a nationalist and I love his dedication and commitment for the country.

Nidhi Jain

Modi. Just no replacement of Modi - give him some time, he will show his true nationalism.

Krishna Garg

Amit Shah, Rahul Gandhi and Narendra Modi.

Shobha Rani

None other than Narendra Modi followed by Amit Shah. Second best is Sharad Pawar.

N K Singh (DG) Retd

Any one from Gandhi family.

V G Gandhi

Except Narendra Modi none because everyone thinks that country is in safe hands and corruption at the centre is negligible as compared to states.

L S Hardenia

The whole premise that a country as large and diverse as India, having such complex governance issues, can be “run” by one individual is a false idea and narrative that the ruling party wants you to believe. The country is governed by ministers, bureaucrats and technocrats who have respective domain expertise. Unlike now where, rightly or wrongly everything is attributed to one person (or 2 recently).

Konark Bhandari

None other than Amit Shah can be the Prime Minister after Modi

R K Tayal

Except Narendra Modi no one is PM material in the country.

N Rawat

With all his experience, only Sharad Pawar will make a good PM.

A C Gulati

In serial order:
1. Mrs. Sonia Gandhi
2. Sharad Pawar
3. Kamal Nath

Paarth Garg

Suryanarayana Murty Kolluri

Though there is no comparison of Narendra Modi, the other three which are worth becoming PM are Arvind Kejriwal, Priyanka Gandhi and Sharad Pawar.

Krishna

Arvind Kejriwal, Nitin Gadkari and Rajnath Singh are my choice for prime ministership of the biggest democracy of the world.

Shreya

After Narendra Modi, second best is Arvind Kejriwal and then comes Priyanka Gandhi Vadra.

Ashok Dangi

Priyanka Gandhi will make an effective PM but she lacks experience. In such a situation, Arvind Kejriwal who has shown how to work of the welfare of people should be given the chance.
